

John H. Hale

Group President Central Operations

John Hale is group president of The Boldt Company's Central Operations division.

Hale has developed an impressive level of experience and knowledge since joining Boldt in 1982. He has excelled at Boldt, and in the construction industry, because of his outstanding job performance and reputation as a detail-oriented person.

Hale has led the efforts in positioning Boldt as one of Milwaukee area's top general contractors and construction managers. He and his staff have directed commercial, institutional, and industrial projects for healthcare campuses, manufacturing firms, paper companies, and universities.

Prior to his promotion to group president, Hale held key roles as vice president, regional manager, chief estimator, and project manager for the Milwaukee office. He is now responsible for overall project organization including estimating, value engineering, scheduling, contract administration, and the successful delivery of construction services.

Hale is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin's Building Construction Management program.
